Brezhnev not seen but name is in print daily

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev has not appeared in public for 46 days, but without fail every day his name has appeared in print or on radio and television.

Whether it is in a congratulatory message to an Estonian milkmaid who has over-fulfilled her five-year plan quota, or in praises to a submarine crew, Brezhnev's name is kept on prominent view.

Nowhere in the official Soviet media is there a hint of the steady flow of rumors in the capital's foreign colony about the 68-year-old Brezhnev — rumors that he has been stricken with an illness, ranging from flu to cancer.

But no clear sign has come from the secrecy of the Kremlin to indicate to seasoned observers here that Brezhnev's political base has eroded.

Dr. Armand Hammer, the U.S. businessman-entrepren-said today he had been told by Soviet officials that the party leader is nearing full recovery from "some respiratory problem in connection with the flu."

Hammer, in Moscow to follow up on business and art deals with the Soviets, did not see Brezhnev but said he was told the general secretary had already returned to his Kremlin office.

Rumors of ill health flowed from cancellation of Brezhnev's long-scheduled January trip to the Middle East. No reason was given.

Since an appearance at the Supreme Soviet (parliament) Dec. 24, Brezhnev has not verifiably been seen in public. Soviet officials say he attended private funeral services for his mother Jan. 8, but since then there has been no official word indicating his whereabouts or movements.

Reports from foreign diplomat and newsmen that Brezhnev has been seen speeding down Moscow boulevards to the Kremlin in recent weeks have not been followed by any announcement that he was back at his office receiving visiting dignitaries or local delegations, which has been normal fare in his 10 years in power.

Some Western officials, part of whose job is to assess the activities and status of the Kremlin leadership, say they have no evidence Brezhnev is in danger, either from a health or a political viewpoint.

But some other diplomats pass the word on Moscow's busy cocktail and dinner circuit that Brezhnev is in political trouble or has heart disease, a respiratory ailment, or worse. One ambassador was certain last week that Brezhnev was suffering from cancer of the jawbone, explaining his often noted problem of clearly enun-ciating when he speaks.

The consensus among foreign observers is that the Brezhnev mystery will reach a climax next week when British Prime Minister Harold Wilson comes to Moscow.

Although technical protocol would not require Brezhnev — the leader of a party — to see the head of a foreign government, it would be considered highly unusual if he did not see Wilson.

Brezhnev saw West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt when he was here last October, and in December journeyed to Paris to see President Valery Giscard d'Estaing.

If he failed to see Wilson — considered in the same general league — many observers here would consider it a gratuitous political snub — or as one diplomatic source said Friday, "It would be pretty clear that bad health was the reason."

BREZHNEV'S CANCELLATION of lunch with French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing in December 1974 started rumors circulating that he was seriously ill. The rumors were not quelled by his cheerful farewell at Orly Airport the next day.

Rebels hit U. S. Ethiopian station

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — A U.S. communications station in the provincial capital of Asmara was hit by gunfire early today after Eritrea's secessionist rebels launched a mortar and rocket assault on an Ethiopian military headquarters, informed sources said.

All of the 100 U.S. personnel were reported safe, but American sources said an airlift was begun to bring them to safety in Addis Ababa, 450 miles to the south. Their families were evacuated along with other foreigners on Tuesday.

Sources said a 15-minute gun battle between rebels and government forces followed the attack. Asmara is ringed by about 20,000 government troops, who in turn are said to be surrounded by insurgents.

Today's fighting indicated some of the 6,000 rebel forces were still in the city. Damage and casualties were not immediately known.

There has been no major fighting in Asmara itself since Monday night. Diplomatic sources estimate the death toll from the nine-day civil war at more than 1,000.

The new assault came following a government statement Friday night that it would never allow the northern province to secede. A statement from Ethiopia's military rulers called the rebels "bandits" and said secession was "unthinkable."

It said Eritreans were opposed to the "oppressive rule of the former regime" of Emperor Haile Selassie, deposed by the military last September. The statement added that the government is committed to finding a peaceful solution.

No food or fuel has reached Asmara since the fighting broke out. The airport is closed, electricity is supplied intermittently and few of the 200,000 residents venture into the streets.

Since 1962, the mostly Moslem guerrillas, supplied with arms from Arab states, have opposed control of Eritrea by the Christian-dominated regime in Addis Ababa.

In Addis Ababa, witnesses said Ethiopian soldiers exchanged gunfire with civilians for an hour Friday when a group of Eritreans living in Addis resisted arrest. The Eritreans were reported loaded into a truck and driven away.

Addis Ababa was calm today but there was an increased military presence in the city of one million residents.

Near break up of powerful group in Illinois House

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Illinois House Speaker William A. Redmond is close to a decision on breaking up the powerful House Appropriations Committee into two separate groups, high-ranking sources say.

If Redmond did break up the committee, he could benefit politically by being able to appoint twice the number of legislators to deal with appropriations matters.

Redmond said he would have no final decision on committee assignments until Thursday, when the House reconvenes to hear Gov. Daniel Walker's State of the State message.

One of those mentioned as a leading contender for the appropriations chairmanship, John Matijevich of North Chicago, said he has told Redmond he does not want either chairmanships if the committee is broken up.

Rep. Thaddeus Lechowicz, D-Chicago, was the chief Democratic spokesman on the Appropriations Committee the last two years. Normally, Lechowicz would be considered the chief candidate for the chairmanship, but he was late in throwing his support to Redmond in the speaker race.

The Appropriations Committee annually hears more than $8 billion in requests for state money.

Redmond said he felt a precedent for breaking up a committee with complex responsibilities was set up four years ago when the House Judiciary Committee was split into two committees, one of which dealt with criminal matters and the other with civil law proposals.

A HEAVYWEIGHT historically speaking, George Washington also carries weight in art circles. A zinc casting of the first President is gingerly jockeyed into display position at New York City's Winter Antiques Show by dealers Timothy Eastland, left, and Philip McNamer. Dating from around 1870 and once an adornment of a federal building, the casting is valued at about $4,500.

Record deficit budget, recessionary stats reports

NEW YORK (AP) — President Ford handed the nation a $349 billion federal budget with a $52 billion deficit attached this past week, while the government poured out more statistics showing the worst recession since World War II.

The budget, the deficit, and the previously announced $16 billion tax cut is intended to take on the nation's economic problems on three crucial fronts: the budget, high as it is, holds the line on new spending and is therefore intended to be anti-inflationary.

But it slates new money to develop the nation's sagging energy sources.

At the same time, the deficit and the related $16 billion tax cut are designed to give a fiscal boost to the slumping economy.

Whether the Ford strategy will work is the subject of a hot debate in Congress and in the nation. But there is little debate any longer on how far the nation has come down the recessionary road.

This past week came these figures: the unemployment rate reached 8.2 per cent in January from 7.2 per cent in December, the worst jobless rate since the Great Depression ended in 1941.

Orders from the nation's factories plunged 8.7 per cent in January, the fourth monthly decline in a row. And consumer credit figures took a record drop for the second straight month, showing that individuals are marshalling their finances for a long, hard economic pull.

Even the President's Council of Economic Advisers, usually in the forefront of optimists, backed away last week from earlier hopes for a mid-year economic rebound.

But as in other recent weeks, the stock market provided the brightest economic news, "living a life of its own" as one analyst said.

The Dow Jones industrial average gained 8.22 points to 711.91, and volume for the week was the second heaviest in history.

While Wall Street was enjoying the sudden upturn in its business, news that the New York Stock Exchange decided last Thursday not to fight a government order ending minimum commission fees by May 1 dampened some spirits.

Brokers and the NYSE have long expressed fears that if brokerages were forced to compete with each other in setting commission fees, smaller houses could be driven out of business, and other houses might no longer see any advantage in remaining NYSE members.

Meanwhile, Arab financiers moved closer to an agreement to assist the financially-ailing Pan American World Airways. The plan, involving a massive purchase of Pan Am stock and Arab representation on its board of directors, is apparently favored by the U.S. government.

Separately, a Saudi Arabian businessman bought himself working control of the Detroit-based Bank of the Commonwealth for $10 million, the first big Arab investment in the nation's banking industry.

Predict $180 million in Illinois housing in 1½ years

CHICAGO (AP) — Federal and state officials predict that a new $48.4 million aid package for the Illinois housing industry over the next 18 months may stimulate as much as $180 million in new construction.

The assistance package was announced Friday by director John L. Waner of the Chicago office of the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development and Chairman Bruce Sagan of the Illinois Housing Development Authority. It represents the Illinois share of the $900 million allocated nationwide through Section 8 housing assistance payments.

Families earning less than 80 per cent of the median income for their area would be eligible for the program. They would pay between 15 and 25 per cent of their income as rent, while the program would make up the difference between that figure and a fair market rent to the landlord.

Landlords agreeing to participate in the program would have to agree to rent at least 30 per cent of their available units to families with incomes less than 50 per cent of the area's median.

Waner said that the exact number of housing units which may be supported through the program would vary from place to place within the state. He said the number of units supported would depend on whether existing units could be rented in their present condition, whether major repair work would be required and whether completely new construction would be needed.

Waner and Sagan said that $40.16 million of the funds would be designated for the Chicago Metropolitan Area and the eight other Standard Metropolitan Statistical Areas in the state: Rockford, Rock Island-Moline, St. Louis, Peoria, Decatur, Champaign-Urbana, Springfield and Bloomington-Normal. The remaining $8.22 million would be spread throughout other areas in the state.

A tentative allocation plan released Friday showed the Chicago Metropolitan Area receiving the largest share of the money, $31,405,000. The other Standard Metropolitan Statistical Areas would receive the following amounts: Rockford $1,138,000; Rock Island-Moline $756,000; St. Louis $2,639,000; Peoria $1,453,000; Decatur $605,000; Champaign-Urbana $746,000; Springfield $746,000 and Bloomington-Normal $446,000.

Cheese-it; now your move

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is preparing to block a move by the Common Market to export European cheese at prices an American dairy group says could undersell American cheese.

The Common Market this week notified American officials of its intention to resume sending subsidized cheese to American consumers.

Last Oct. 31 in Sioux City, Iowa, President Ford pledged that he would not permit European dairy products to enter the U.S. market again without retaliatory action.

"If the Europeans reinstate their export subsidies on dairy products directed at this market, I will impose duties on these products," Ford said then.

A Treasury Department official said Friday that the department would issue a preliminary ruling next week that the European subsidy violates U.S. trade laws.

U.S. trade laws prohibit subsidies on exports to this country if they result in unfair competition with domestic products.

When such an unfair trade practice exists, the Treasury Department is required to impose special countervailing duties to offset the foreign subsidy.

The Common Market has said the subsidies probably would make European cheese slightly more expensive than its U.S. equivalent and thereby would qualify for an exemption from countervailing duties.

By The Associated Press
Saudi Arabia's oil minister, Ahmed Zaki Yamani, said today that oil prices should show "some decrease" and that he hopes oil will not again be used as a political weapon.

"We are still trying to have some decrease in the oil price," Yamani told a news conference in New Delhi at the end of a three-day visit to India.

"I don't think in 1975 there will be any further increase. It has already been decided to freeze prices up to September this year and I hope we can get that freeze extended beyond 1975." The price was frozen last December at $10.12 a barrel.

"In the future we hope oil won't be used as a weapon," Yamani said. "But, also, we hope the reason why we used it will be removed, and that is to get a home for the whole ... Palestinian nation."

In other oil developments: —Financial experts of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries began drafting a series of working papers in Vienna for their chiefs of state to be used in the dialogue with the main industrialized nations of the West.

The experts also were discussing the weakness of the dollar and possible oil production cuts, but OPEC officials said the meeting was secret and that no announcements would be made.

The session was expected to last about one week, which meant it could end just ahead of the OPEC ministerial meeting scheduled to open Feb. 19 in Vienna. The dialogue with the oil consuming nations is set for sometime later this year.

—In Paris, the world oil conference proposed by France ran into difficulty over poor nation demands that it be expanded to cover all raw materials. It may also be jeopardized by lack of agreement among industrialized nations on Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's proposal to set minimum prices on oil imports as a means of encouraging development of alternate energy sources.

The International Energy Agency, made up of 18 Western industrialized nations, met Wednesday through Friday in Paris and insisted that the planned world conference discuss only oil. But in Dakar, Senegal, developing nations urged that it cover prices and marketing of all raw materials they export, from bauxite to zinc.

Etienne Davignon, the Belgian president of the energy agency, said he believed it was possible to go ahead with a preliminary meeting in March to set procedures for the conference.

Davignon said agency members had withheld endorsement of Kissinger's minimum-price plan because it was just one of many possible ways to develop new energy resources, all of which needed detailed study.

In Beirut, the newspaper Al Anwar quoted Ghanem Abdul Jalil, Iraq's minister of higher education, as saying an oil field discovered near Baghdad makes Iraq's reserves the world's second largest after Saudi Arabia. Iraq's proven reserves are 31.5 billion barrels, the fourth largest in the Mideast.

Onassis has bad influenza

PARIS (AP) — Doctors treating Aristotle Onassis at the American Hospital say his current illness is "very heavy influenza."

They did not mention the 69-year-old tycoon's myasthenia gravis, a debilitating muscle disease for which Onassis was treated last November.

The Greek multimillionaire flew to Paris for treatment Thursday at the insistence of his wife, the former Jacqueline Kennedy.

In Athens, the Greek government announced Friday that it had put Olympic Airways, Onassis's airline, under total state control.

After prolonged negotiations with Onassis, the government said it had decided to take over the airline and said it would send a document to Onassis for signature next week. There was no mention of compensation.

Sources at the hospital in suburban Neuilly said Onassis' wife and his daughter Christina visited him early Friday evening but he received no other visitors.

His French physician, Prof. Jacques Caroli, told reporters Onassis' health "has been shaken by very heavy influenza. His doctors are trying to treat the consequences."

Dr. Isadore Rosenfeld, a New York cardiologist who treated Onassis in November, went to Athens but has since returned home. He said Onassis' myasthenia gravis was in remission but that he was "losing energy because of impaired nutrition and impaired appetite" resulting from a severe upper respiratory infection. He said he was satisfied Onassis' "cardiac condition was stable and satisfactory."

Rosenfeld said he recommended hospitalization in Paris or New York for possible tests. He said Onassis chose Paris.

Congs killed near Duc Duc: S. Viet

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — South Vietnam's military command reported today its troops killed 85 North Vietnamese in heavy fighting in the northern quarter, near the district town of Duc Duc, 25 miles south of Da Nang.

It said seven South Vietnamese soldiers and four Viet Cong were killed in a clash near the provincial capital of Phu Cuong City, 15 miles north of Saigon.

A Viet Cong mine blew up a civilian bus and a military truck on highways in the Mekong Delta southwest of Saigon, killing 11 persons and wounding 17, the command said. The dead included nine soldiers.

Field reports said two rockets were fired at the Phu Lam communications station on the western edge of Saigon on Friday night but they fell harmlessly in an open field. A rocket attack against the station Jan. 6 killed four civilians and wounded eight others.

In Cambodia, insurgent forces again rocketed Phnom Penh airport with five rounds but police reported no damage.

Col. Vo Dong Gian, deputy chief of the Viet Cong delegation to the two-party Joint Military Commission in Saigon, denied reports that Viet Cong sappers had infiltrated into Saigon to launch attacks during Tet, the lunar new year on Tuesday.

He told a news conference it was part of a U.S.-South Vietnamese propaganda campaign to get more American military aid for the government of President Nguyen Van Thieu.

He said he could not say whether it would be a peaceful

Tet "because our headquarters never notifies us of any military action they would take."

During the 1968 Tet, the Communist command launched one of its biggest offensives of the war, triggering heavy fighting across South Vietnam.

Half a dozen opposition deputies pricked their fingers with razor blades and signed a petition in blood calling on the A.S. government to "withdraw all support to the dictator Nguyen Van Thieu."

Commissary subsidies cut in half

WASHINGTON (AP) — Military commissary store subsidies will be cut in half this October and eliminated entirely a year later, says the Pentagon.

The decision was described as "an effort to reduce defense expenditures and to increase the share of the defense budget allocated to combat forces."

Post Exchanges are not affected by the decision announced this week.

"Unlike Post Exchanges, which are generally self-supporting, military commissary stores are provided direct support by appropriated funds primarily to meet the payroll costs of their civilian and military employees," the Pentagon announcement said.

Vietnam still a U.S. war

By TOM TIEDE

WASHINGTON (NEA)—At a recent diplomatic gathering I was introduced to a businessman from South Vietnam. The host identified me as a newspaperman. "Oh yes, the press," the Vietnamese said, looking down into his refreshment glass, "and why do you hate us so?"

I ignored the question at the time as bizarre, but ponder it now. As the Communists increase their ferocity in the Southeast Asian nation, and leaders there predict doom if U.S. aid is not immediate, the businessman's wonder becomes quite reasonable: His fate, his family's, and the future of society as he knows it hangs by a gossamer thread of public relations. A generally hostile U.S. press may yet destroy the man's dreams, beliefs and even his life.

I say hostile and he says hate. Perhaps his term is closer to the truth. Whatever, the sentiment is not confined to the media commentators, but rather is passed on to same in the form of news and argument by that segment of the American public which, unprecedented in the nation's history, has come to dislike this Asian ally more than any of our enemies. It is not just U.S. non-involvement these anti-South Vietnam people covet, nor for that matter peace and peace alone, it is the complete destruction of South Vietnam as it is now constituted.

There is no doubt ample reason for many Americans to look on South Vietnam with a wrinkled nose. At least 40,000 U.S. families lost relatives there, and every taxpayer continues to feel the burden of a U.S. compliance that when all past and future costs are considered totals about $400 billion in fees. Besides this, it almost goes without saying, is the as yet unpatchable split in the American experience caused by the Vietnam hemorrhage.

Yet hatred seems excessive. It was U.S. leadership not Vietnamese that committed so many American lives and dollars to the grave. One can deny further commitment with honor and wisdom, but to deny it in the hope and prediction that the denial will murder South Vietnam is a form of political genocide. That nation did nothing to this which deserves cries for its slaughter.

This is not to imply that South Vietnam is anything more than it is—a sinkhole of corruption, largely, where demands never cease for the common man's sacrifice. But measured against most of the nations in the world (112 of 152 of which are considered to be less than free by Freedom House, Inc.) it is not so dark. As freedoms go, actually, the Saigon government at least rates above its adversary to the north, which allows no open elections, no labor unions, no student demonstrations and no independent newspapers. South Vietnam may not be a model of Jeffersonian democracy, but today as for the past 30 years there is no movement north of a people who would seek any reasonable escape.

And make no mistake that in terms of barbarian too, the South (if only because it has been so carefully scrutinized by world opinion) must be preferable to its antagonists. I recall as a reporter in the war coming across a U.S. trooper unfortunate enough to be isolated from his unit by the Viet Cong. The man was stripped of leg skin, mutilated in the crotch, blinded, and shot close range through the head. The allies had periodic My Lai; the other side did such as policy.

I admit here to a distaste for this pondering. Reflections of aberrations are never pleasant, writing again about Vietnam is a chore. As others, I wish to forget.

We are committed, however, perhaps sentenced is a better word, to discuss the issue to its end. It is still a U.S. war, fought with U.S. weapons, financed by U.S. money. Too bad, but there it is. One does not easily weasel out of truth; and hoping for a Communist win will not make any of it right.

Personally, however, I think discussion is the limit of our commitment. I doubt the gain of giving South Vietnam another dime. And yet I hope for its future. They should do it alone now, succeed or fail; the only thing we still owe that nation is our continued best wishes.

Soviet trade and now the good news

By DON OAKLEY

What is the future of U.S.-Soviet trade relations—indeed, of this whole idea called detente—now that the Kremlin has rejected the attempt to tie liberalized trade with the United States to the requirement that the Soviets liberalize their emigration policies regarding Russian citizens, in particular, Russian Jews?

A number of commentators have taken the position that, well, it was a good try; now let's go back to square one and start talking about the important thing again—trade.

There is, in fact, evidence to suggest that it was more than a good try. The lengthy debate in Congress over according "most favored nation" status (no discriminatory tariffs) to the Soviet Union has already had a beneficial effect. In the past two years, thousands of Jews have been permitted to leave Russia who might not otherwise have been able to.

This process, helped along by behind-the-scenes prodding, will continue, it's said—so long as we don't press the issue to the point of embarrassing the Soviets internationally.

It has also been argued that the United States would reject any Soviet attempt to link trade with demands that this country do better by its own minorities, although such an argument ignores the world of differences between their system and ours. We are at least officially and actively committed to the furtherance of the civil rights of all our citizens.

In any event, so much attention has been focussed on the plight of Soviet Jews that very few questions have been asked about the actual desirability or necessity of trade with the Soviet Union.

We assume that trade with the Russians is desirable, if only to serve the cause of detente. But do we really need it, and should we really want it?

We may never be burned again as we were in the wheat deal, but this is the way the Russians do business. That is, in their state controlled economy, individual Russian companies do not make deals with individual foreign companies. The Soviets operate in terms of large-scale, long-term purchase agreements, and thus the more we trade with them, warn some critics, the more our export economy runs the risk of becoming merely a diplomatic adjunct of the State Department.

There may well come a time when the United States looks to Russia's vast storehouse of petroleum and minerals. Right now, however, they need our technology more than we need their resources.

Between 1972 and 1973, Soviet imports of our products more than doubled. U.S. imports of Soviet products also rose, but were still only a tenth of Soviet purchases.

Even so, the Kremlin's abrogation of the 1972 trade agreement indicates that the Soviets don't need us all that much, either. They have apparently concluded that they can get what they want elsewhere and that normalized trade relations with the United States, especially when hedged in by the restrictions adopted by Congress, are not all that vital to their interests.

There are other signs of cooling inside the Kremlin toward the United States. The virtual disappearance of party chairman Leonid Brezhnev from the public eye may be as much connected with the collapse of Richard Nixon, and with it his cultivated "personal diplomacy" vis-a-vis the Russians, as it is with Brezhnev's reported ill health.

This new coolness, to be sure, is still a long way from the old coldness of former years. But at the present time, both countries seem to have retreated to a sort of arms-length circling of each other. We are in a period of wait-and-see.

It is always a good idea to wait before accepting the embrace of the Russian bear.

Church growth back in style

By DAVID POLING

For the first time in 15 years, church attendance and membership growth have started up in North America. Some key pastors have sensed this in the last two years but the Gallup Poll released statistics last month which indicate that the long decline of institutional religion may be over.

The turbulent and convulsive events of the '60s took their toll on the Christian community. Active, involved, concerned church members were in the front rank of our most pressing problems—emerging issue of women's rights. Energy and time and resources were expended. The world and the church has not been the same since.

Today one catches the signals of resurgence in the church. Religious publishers point to increasing sales. Conferences for clergy and laity flourish. Seminaries are packed (with nearly one-third women in the mainline denominations) and the local congregation is a center of excitement and challenge. It should not surprise us that the Convocation of Church Growth in Garden Grove, Calif., has more than 500 churchmen signed up for their February sessions. The larger surprise is that no one took Robert Schuller seriously when he argued a decade ago that the institutional church had a fantastic future "with power and strength" in the 21st century.

The Schuller secret is demonstrated in the 7,000-member Garden Grove Community Church, sprawling over 20 acres and beaming a colorcast to some 150 television stations in North America.

Since most of the 250,000 clergy will not be able to attend the Convocation on Church Growth, they may want to get Schuller's new paperback, "Your Church Has Real Possibilities," by Regal Books. This California pastor (some critics call him Norman Peale West) reveals the secret of his success, the source of his early wounds and the direction he sees for the church today. Most of what he says is never discussed in seminary and that may be the problem for many young and old pastors.

Key to church growth and success:

1. Pastors should stop jumping around and mentally and emotionally prepare themselves for a lifetime ministry in one place. Schuller decided to put his whole life into the creation and development of Garden Grove. Mobility works against long-term planning and goal achievement. Stay there.

2. Pulpit preaching should be inspiring and uplifting. Speak to the needs of people broken and bruised by the world. Offer the Good News of Christ. Pulpit pronouncements and political comment are insulating to an audience. The arena for social concern, doctrinal debate, community action is in small groups with broad and lively discussion.

3. Parking and publicity. A congregation alive to the needs and yearnings of modern man will grow and expand. Soul hunger is the deepest of all. You must let the world know what you are doing—and when they are eager to respond, a place to park on arrival. No parking kills a church faster than negative preaching.

4. Aim at the unchurched. Every congregation is surrounded by thousands of people who have no church relationship at all. Instead of a denominational promotion, offer a Christian experience.

The experts keep saying, if you want a vision of tomorrow, look at California today. For the church, it may be a careful study of Bob Schuller's results in the heart of secular America.

Budget patch job no economic cure

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)—President Ford's budget huffs and puffs. But it doesn't do much for economic recovery.

There are band-aids aplenty. More for unemployment insurance. Temporary public service jobs. Something here and something there. These steps are no substitute for steady employment, a thriving industry and agriculture and an ability to compete in the world markets.

Employment is down, inflation up and the economy lagging because business and industry haven't increased efficiency, adapted new discoveries to practical use and expanded basic output rapidly enough to employ the millions who need work. Agriculture, which has made tremendous strides this past decade, can't meet demand.

In this situation, what has Mr. Ford done? He's assigned piddling amounts of exploring ways to transfer the new technology more rapidly to government and industry use and for studies aimed at increasing productivity. Basic research, on which the long-range efficiency of U.S. industry and government rests, continues to move down in real dollars. Agriculture research barely keeps pace with inflation.

Then take energy, on which Mr. Ford has rightfully placed such stress in his speeches of late. The heavy spending here is in the esoteric systems which will pan out in the dim future, if ever. Less-glamorous research into more efficient use of energy by the consumer, which has a high payoff, is being short changed, with a few important exceptions. In energy conservation, each million efficiently spent could bring savings of several millions of dollars a year, and result in important cuts in energy use.

Experiments in Europe have demonstrated that with inexpensive in-depth studies, individual companies can increase output as much as 25 per cent while cutting power use by a fifth or more.

The door has barely been opened on these possible savings, which range across the board from steel to cement to factory heating and the use of waste heat in a multitude of other businesses and industries.

How effective relatively small amounts of money can be in conserving energy is best illustrated by a National Aeronautics and Space Administration project which, for a modest amount of research funding over the next decade, gives promise of saving a million barrels a day of petroleum and $3 billion to $4 billion a year in dollar savings in the cost of operating airplanes in this country.

In fairness it should be added that Mr. Ford's budget does provide $26 million for long-range work on more efficient electric power transmission, advanced automotive power systems and energy storage. But there's a mere $3 million to discover means for end-use conservation.

The problem, of course, is not that Mr. Ford is not planning to spend enough. The budget is already far too big as any taxpayer knows. The problem is rather that the money, in all too many instances, is not channeled to efforts scheduled to bring the most effective returns.

We need more and cheaper oil and we need it urgently. One way to do this, as everyone agrees, is through comprehensive geological surveys on the continental shelf and nearby waters and in land areas not yet thoroughly mapped. Hit and miss work will prolong the days of our dependence, increase the cost of the oil markedly and waste tremendous amounts of money.

One would think, under these circumstances, that Mr. Ford would have provided for a major stepup in this type of work. The sad fact is that the geological survey's budget for 1976 does little more than keep pace with inflation.

I could go on. But these examples are sufficient to show how Mr. Ford is short-changing recovery.

Sweetheart cookies for a Valentine

By AILEEN CLAIRE
Homemade cookies make a memorable, sweet-from-the-heart Valentine appreciated by young or old. Oatmeal refrigerator cookies with cream cheese and chopped walnuts are easy to bake and really are Sweetheart Cookies when decorated with a pink confectioners' sugar frosting. The only problem with these is to find a way to reserve enough of them for that special person once the family starts nibbling.

- SWEETHEART COOKIES
1 cup butter or margarine, softened
2 3-ounce packages cream cheese, softened
1 cup granulated sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
4 teaspoon salt
1 cup quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked
1/2 cup chopped walnuts

- PINK FROSTING:
2 cups sifted confectioners sugar
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, softened
4 teaspoons milk
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
2 to 3 drops red food coloring

Beat together butter and cream cheese until creamy; add sugar and vanilla; beat again. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Add to creamed mixture. Stir in oats and walnuts; mix well. Chill several hours or overnight. Divide into 1-inch balls. To shape into hearts, press to flatten slightly. Pinch bottom end together to form point. With index finger press dough from top edge towards point to make indentation in top of heart. Place on ungreased cookie sheets. Bake in preheated 350-degree oven 12 to 15 minutes. Cool. Makes 4 dozen cookies.

For frosting, combine sugar, butter, milk and vanilla. Beat until smooth. Add food coloring; blend well. Frost cooled cookies.

Dear Ann

by Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I read your column regularly in the Akron Beacon Journal and was delighted to find it in the Star-Phoenix, in Saskatoon, Canada, where we are vacationing.

Please reconsider your answer to the minister's wife who complained because a certain couple did not give her husband a "gratuity" for performing a wedding ceremony. You agreed that the minister was certainly entitled to something.

The clergyman is paid a salary to minister to the needs of his flock. This includes baptisms, weddings, funerals, counseling, visiting the sick and the bereaved. I realize all this is over and beyond the Sunday sermon, but most clergy would be insulted if you suggested that they worked only on Sunday.

What is this "fee" business anyway? Why shouldn't they charge for visiting hospitals, then? It makes just as much sense.

One final word. I wonder how many clergymen declare those "extra gifts" on their tax returns when they officiate at weddings and funerals and pay taxes on those monies. Darned few, I'll bet. — Raised Eyebrows

Dear Browns: Clergymen are among the most poorly compensated of all professionals. Those who are well enough paid so that they need not depend on "honorariums" to keep food on the table should be given an extra bonus for officiating at weddings (especially if it is part of a festive social affair which requires a rehearsal) and for good reason. These monies are needed for his "contingency" or "discretionary" fund which enables him to help the needy members of his flock — something most people aren't even aware of. Honorariums for funerals are almost always turned over to the church.

Dear Ann Landers: Last evening my husband and I went bowling. It was 11:30 p.m. when we finished. Seated near us was a couple with a baby who couldn't have been more than a year old. The poor child was crying from fatigue, rubbing her little eyes, begging her parents to take her home. The mother gave her a bottle and some crackers and told her to keep quiet.

That scene broke my heart. Maybe it's because I have a child the same age. It was all I could do to keep from going over to that mother and asking her to please take her little one home. I actually wanted to but my husband said, "Ann Landers would say M.Y.O.B."

I realize that people need to get out of the house once in a while but if they can't afford a babysitter, couldn't a better arrangement be made? I need to know your views on this. Was I right to keep my mouth shut? — Concerned

Dear Concerned: Yes. That mother would have viewed your concern as interference. I agree that other arrangements should be made if the couple can't afford a sitter. Perhaps the child could be left with a relative, friend or neighbor and the mother could reciprocate by keeping her child or children overnight or taking them for the day. A bowling alley is no place for a one-year-old at 11:30 at night.

Dixon Travel Club program on Japan

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Ericson, Lutheran missionaries to Japan who are on a furlough, presented an illustrated program on Japan at Tuesday night's meeting in Loveland Community House for the Dixon Travel Club.

The Ericsons have been stationed in Okayama, Japan, but will be returning to the city of Hakodate on the Island of Hokkaido in northern Japan.

After studying the Japanese language for two years, Mrs. Ericson taught English in a junior high school for girls for seven years. She also taught in a university and the YMCA, and she taught English Bible classes in a church.

Slides shown by the Ericsons depicted areas of Japan they had visited including Hokkaido, where the 1972 Olympics were held; Sapporo, site of the Winter Olympics; Sounkyo, famous for its wood carving; Akan, where snow is constant but the ocean is hot enough for steam baths; Lake Mashu and Ikeda, famous for grapes and beef, and Lake Toya.

Mrs. Ericson also instructed a cooking class when she taught Japanese women how to make porcupine meat balls, and how to prepare a dish called "parent-child," which she described as rice covered with chicken and eggs.

Next to rice, the soy bean is the most important staple in Japan, and 400,000 people make their living finding and drying seaweed from which salt is extracted.

The club president, Miss Alice Sheller, presided during a business meeting, and the speakers were introduced by Miss Mary Jane Boynton.

Valentine decorations trimmed the refreshment table arranged for a social hour by the evening's hostesses, Miss Boynton, Mrs. Eric Gerdes and Mrs. Paul Swartz.

The next meeting was scheduled for March 4 when hostesses will be Mrs. Ralph Newman, Mrs. Charles Mensch and Mrs. Lewis Eller.

The Lee-Whiteside Counties Legal Secretaries Association met recently in the Chateau, Sterling, when David E. Clift, vice president and senior trust officer of the Central National Bank, Sterling, was the guest speaker.

During a business session, Mrs. Marlene Lewis, Morrison, was appointed chairman of the auditing committee, and plans were made for the second annual dinner and fashion show to be sponsored by the organization Feb. 18 at Emerald Hill Country Club. Costumes for the show will be provided by the Happy Hanger Shop, located at the Ramada Inn, Dixon, and tickets may be purchased in advance at the shop or from association members. Proceeds from the event will be placed in the association's scholarship fund, and a brief business meeting for members will follow the dinner and show.

Miss Shirley Call, Rock Falls, was hostess for a meeting of the board of directors Tuesday night, and a recent state board meeting in Champaign was attended by Mrs. Sandra Yost and Mrs. Lewis, Morrison; Mrs. DeLores Haley, Amboy; Mrs. Donna Currens and Mrs. Estella Johnson, Dixon; Miss Call and Mrs. Mary Arduini, Rock Falls, and Mrs. Roni Stolz, Sterling.

Members of the Lee-Whiteside Legal Secretaries Association will serve as hostesses at the 1976 state convention when a bi-centennial theme will be adopted, and the 1975 state convention is scheduled for next May in Rock Island.

Miss Mary Ann Hartwick, Waukegan, is president of the Illinois Association of Legal Secretaries; Mrs. Currens serves as state chairman for legal education and schools, and Mrs. Lewis was recently appointed state historian, replacing Mrs. Barbara Garvey, Alton, who resigned.

Mr. McLane is speaker at Phidian Art Club meeting

The Phidian Art Club met Tuesday afternoon in Loveland Community House when John McLane Jr., presented a program entitled "Past and Present."

Mr. McLane, who was introduced by Mrs. Warren Walder, program chairman, is associated with his father in the McLane and McLane architectural firm, Dixon. A graduate of Notre Dame University, he is the designer of the new city garage in Dixon, and he is presently teaching an evening course in design each week at Northern Illinois University, DeKalb.

Downtown Dixon
The speaker described his interest in the appearance of downtown Dixon, and stated that he believed much could be done to relieve the harshness of concrete and enhance the architectural details of the buildings. In most cases the cost would be minimal, and he showed slides depicting improved buildings in the downtown area where details of the original designs have been emphasized.

Mr. McLane believes that civic-minded groups are needed to improve the downtown section, and stated that he would be happy to work with such groups. He mentioned buildings that could be improved by murals, and he suggested a contest to get mural ideas. If such a contest were in accord with Northern Illinois University's design courses, materials would be furnished by the university. However, the contest must be sponsored by a Dixon group.

He discussed the origin of the mural recently completed at First Street and Peoria Avenue, in which he had an active part. The historical theme for the mural was chosen after old photographs of Dixon were studied for accuracy. Miss Jackie Gommell designed the mural, which depicts downtown Dixon as it was 60 years ago. The project was undertaken by a Dixon paint crew who had never painted a mural, but what they lacked in experience was overshadowed by their enthusiasm. Before the design could be projected on the wall of the building, the area had to be cleaned, repaired and primed. The design was finally projected on the wall and sketched in charcoal, which took three hours to complete. When the painting began, most Dixonites watched with interest as the mural became a reality.

Cost of Mural
The mural cost between $1,200 and $1,300, and the fee was paid by the City of Dixon, the Chamber of Commerce and private donations.

Mrs. Robert Hofmann, vice president of the club, conducted a business session, and hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. R. M. Ferguson, Mrs. Stanley Weber and Mrs. James Collins.

Mrs. L. W. Feik presided at the tea table, which was covered with a white linen cloth and held red candles in silver candelabra and a centerpiece of red, white and blue carnations.

Plants are for children too

By JANET TARA
Plants are for everyone, children included. Good lessons are learned from the experience of working with simple-to-grow plants started from kitchen seeds.

Start with two of the easiest, the avocado and sweet potato. Both are "planted" in the same fashion. Suspend them on three equally distanced toothpicks in a jar of water with about one-third of the potato or avocado in the water. Now for some patience. An avocado will take longer to sprout than the potato, about two months. Guard against a child's disappointment if you pick a "dud" by simultaneously planting a couple of avocados and sweet potatoes.

When you have enough roots, a stem and leaves on the avocado, plant it in normal houseplant soil and watch it grow — quite tall if you don't cut it back.

The sweet potato should stay in water and the luxurious shoots can be trained to gracefully frame a window or trellis.

Avocados cannot take the cold as well as sweet potatoes, so you should be careful not to let them sit in a draft.

When choosing an avocado in the store, look for the blackest, mushiest one you can find. It is already on the way to germination.

Priscilla Circle meeting

Members of the First United Methodist Church Priscilla Circle will be guests of Mrs. Robert Hanes, 705 W. Second St., at a meeting planned for 7:30 p.m. Monday.

Scientific play fizzles out

By Oswald & James Jacoby
North's five nortrupp response was one of those modern scientific bids. It demanded that South bid his lowest four-card suit. When South bid six spades, North knew his partner held four spades and three cards in each other suit. This discouraged North and he settled for letting South play what should have been an easy six nortrupp.

It didn't work out that way. South won the diamond lead, cashed dummy's ace of clubs and led low to his jack and West's queen. West promptly led back the 10 of clubs and East discarded a heart. He could afford this because he knew that South held just three hearts.

Now South cashed all the hearts and the last two diamonds. Everyone followed. West knew from the bidding that South only held three diamonds, so he dropped the 10 and nine and hung on to the seven.

South cashed dummy's ace and queen of spades; led a third spade and thought. West was known to have a club as one of his last two cards. Was the other the seven of diamonds or the jack of spades? South guessed wrong and was one down.

The hand wasn't a triumph for science, but it wasn't a tragedy either.

The game was team of four; at the other table the grand slam was bid and somehow or other South managed to go down two.

The Boston Celtics finished their latest serene Friday night but the beat goes on for the New Orleans Jazz.

While the Celtics' 11-game National Basketball Association winning streak suffered a 98-95 demise at the hands of the Philadelphia 76ers, the Jazz hit the road for the 28th time...and for the 28th time the road hit back. This time, the bad guys were the Milwaukee Bucks and the bad numbers were 119-98.

Milwaukee, led by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's 35 points, withstood a 27-point barrage by Pete Maravich to defeat New Orleans. Jon McGlocklin tied his season high with 18 for the Bucks, who broke a slump of six defeats in eight games and handed New Orleans its 28th defeat in as many road games.

The Bucks, on five points by McGlocklin, outscored New Orleans 8-2 in the last two minutes of the first half to lead 54-44. Abdul-Jabbar and Mickey Davis scored eight points apiece in the third quarter as the Bucks opened a 22-point lead.

76ers 98, Celtics 95

Billy Cunningham scored 33 points to lead Philadelphia past the World Champions.

Bulls 95, Pistons 83

Chicago posted its 20th victory in the last 28 games and moved two games ahead of runner-up Detroit.

Braves 108, Lakers 98

Jack Marin and Ken Charles came off the bench and powered Buffalo past Los Angeles.

Bullets 99, SuperSonics 76

Phil Chenier scored 28 points to pace Washington.

Rockets 105, Hawks 97

More auto worker layoffs

DETROIT (AP) — More auto workers will be on indefinite layoffs next week than at any time since the severe sales slump hit the industry more than a year ago.

Thirty per cent, or 207,650, of the Big Three auto makers' 684,000 blue collar workers will be on open-ended furloughs. Another 45,330 auto workers will be on temporary layoffs next week, for a total of 252,980, or 37 per cent off the job.

This past week, 275,000 workers were on layoffs, but a large proportion were on temporary layoffs.

The auto companies will have 14 car and truck plants closed next week to reduce inventories of unsold models, which remain high despite cash rebate plans and extensive plant shutdowns in the past three months. Last week the firms had 26 plants closed.

In other auto developments Friday:

—The United Auto Workers, concerned that thousands of unemployed union members will lose medical insurance benefits when special jobless funds dry up this spring, asked the auto makers to extend premium payments. General Motors said it is exploring the idea with the union.

—Chrysler said it will discontinue production of its heavy-duty Dodge trucks Feb. 21, because the model line no longer is profitable. The move will mean layoffs for 600 workers. Chrysler said heavy trucks account for only 1.2 per cent of its total truck output.

—GM said it is abandoning year-long plans to establish a car subsidiary in Spain because it could not reach terms with the Spanish government.

—Chrysler also said that 82 of its suppliers are giving cash rebates to employees who buy or lease a new Chrysler car. The firm said a total of 3.5 million workers are covered by the rebates.

Ford Motor Co. said Friday it will close 10 plants and temporarily lay off 28,175 workers for next week, 11,600 fewer than were furloughed this week when the firm had 15 plants shut.

But Ford also said it was laying off another 900 workers indefinitely, raising its open-ended furloughs to 35,200. Ford will have 63,375 of its 177,000 production workers on layoff next week.

GM will have 134,305 of its 370,000 workers on layoff and five car plants closed next week. Some 121,000 workers are on indefinite layoff.

At Chrysler, which will have two plants shut for the week, 55,000 of 114,000 hourly workers will be on layoff. All but 3,850 of them are on indefinite furlough.

American Motors is keeping all its plants open next week, with only 450 of its 23,000 workers on indefinite layoff.

At least 26,000 of the companies' 240,000 salaried employees also are on layoff next week.

No raise in tuition at Newman

The Newman High School Council of Administration voted earlier this week to retain the tuition rate of $375 for the first child and $325 for the second child for the forthcoming school year, 1975-76.

The Rev. John J. Mitchell, principal of Newman, announced the decision today, stating, "This is the third consecutive year in which the council has not raised the tuition. The decision should prove to be happy news to the students and their parents, as I am sure many were expecting a raise. Not only has the student cost not risen in three years, but last year the council even lowered the rate for families by dropping tuition entirely for the third or fourth child from the same family."

A primary factor in the council's determination of the tuition rate was to keep Catholic secondary education within the financial reach of all interested families in the community. Newman experienced an eight per cent increase in enrollment this year. The Rev. Mr. Mitchell informed the council that if the freshman registration for the spring semester can be seen as an indicator, an eight to ten per cent increase in enrollment is not beyond the realm of the possible for the 1975-76 school year.

OMVI arrest

Lee County Sheriff's deputies arrested a rural Dixon youth in Amboy early today and charged him with driving while intoxicated.

Jack Thomas King, 19, Rt. 2, was arrested after deputies stopped his vehicle in Amboy. King was placed under bond and will appear in court at a later date.

Agnew and Dilbeck split; trade charges

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — Real estate developer Walter J. Dilbeck Jr. says former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew made a lot of money and connections during their partnership and left Dilbeck all the problems.

Dilbeck made the comment Friday after Agnew announced he was terminating his one-year, $100,000 contract with Dilbeck because Dilbeck exploited their business relationship and defaulted on a final $25,000 installment.

Dilbeck, whose financial exploits included the ill-fated Global Baseball League which fizzled when all six teams got stuck in Venezuela with unpaid hotel bills, says Agnew is the exploiter.

"I haven't received a dime from him and he's taken $75,000 from me. I gave him a free ride. Everybody knew he was broke when I hired him," Dilbeck said in an interview Friday night. "He got a lot of real connections out of this deal and I got the problems."

Dilbeck said Agnew's final payment wasn't due until June 30, "but if he needs $25,000, I'd be glad to send it to him. That's what he's done before." Dilbeck, 56, said he made advances on several occasions when Agnew asked him for money.

In a letter to Dilbeck which was released to news media, Agnew said Dilbeck's "desire for publicity has violated the confidentiality of many negotiations in progress and shocked our clients."

"In the beginning, I thought the problem was your inexperience with the news media. But now I must conclude that your exaggerations and outright misstatements of fact were a calculated scheme to promote your image at the expense of my integrity."

Dilbeck laughed off Agnew's charge that the former vice president's integrity had been jeopardized by their partnership.

"His image wasn't too good when I hired him," Dilbeck said. "In fact, a lot of companies prefer dealing directly with me."

"All I did was what he told me. But I had a feeling this was coming. I've felt he's been making other deals in the East and I don't think he's been representing me."

Dilbeck also accused Agnew of working on an autobiography instead of tending to business.

Dilbeck has said publicly that he and Agnew had nearly completed a pair of multimillion-dollar deals in Kentucky — one for homes and apartments purchased with Mideast oil money, and the other for sale of a coal mine to Japanese interests. But Dilbeck said the only deal Agnew concluded was the $2-million sale of an Oklahoma coal mine. And Dilbeck said he never received any money from that transaction.

A statement released by Dilbeck said the partnership was being terminated because "Agnew's apparent preoccupation with Arab powers (as investors) is distasteful and unsatisfactory due to Dilbeck's longstanding association with many Jewish people and interests in this country."

But Dilbeck said later, "The whole problem was he didn't want me to talk to the news media.... If he'd have stayed, he'd have made millions, because I am going to."

"It all boils down to this: $75,000 looked good to him when he was skinny. But I guess he's just gotten too sophisticated for Goosiers."

Dilbeck, who started selling used cars when he was 16, is a flashy dresser whose business career has been equally flamboyant.

The Global Baseball League episode began in the 1960s when he bought a couple minor league teams and decided to launch an international sports venture.

In 1969, he sold the financially troubled league for more than $4 million in notes to the Baptist Foundation of America.

At that time, all six teams were in Venezuela, being held for nonpayment of $12,000 in hotel bills and for bouncing more than $8,700 worth of Dilbeck's checks. The Baptist Foundation, which had no connection with the Baptist church, turned out to be bankrupt, and Dilbeck couldn't cash in the notes. Eventually, the bills were settled and the athletes were allowed to leave Venezuela.

Dilbeck's political ventures have included two unsuccessful campaigns for mayor of Evansville, a southwestern Indiana city across the Ohio River from Kentucky.

In 1968, he spent $140,000 promoting conservative Republican Ronald Reagan for president, and the then-governor of California disavowed any connection with Dilbeck.

Four years later, Dilbeck signed for almost $150,000 in loans to finance Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., in the former Evansville mayor's short-lived bid for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Girl named team manager

MOLINE, Ill. (AP) — The team manager for the Black Hawk College basketball team can't get into the locker room, but does about everything else a manager can. Her name is Brenda.

Brenda Taylor, a freshman, is the first woman manager in Black Hawk basketball history and her coach calls her "as efficient a manager as I've ever had."

"When she came to me and asked about the job, I told her I'd have to consider it because obviously it does present a unique problem," said Coach John Parker.

"But she was so energetic and so insistent that I couldn't say no," he said.

"I kept annoying the coach, pressuring him every day," said Brenda. "He finally asked the players and they agreed to give it a try."

Brenda still can't get into the locker room, but finds plenty to do away from the showers.

She counts towels and uniforms, keeps track of statistics, makes sure players have all parts of their uniforms and handles countless other common tasks.

On away games she makes sure players have enough to eat, bringing along plenty of home-cooked food.

It's always gone by the time they return.

"I tried to be a manager in high school in Rock Island but the coaches wouldn't have it," she said. "I also tried to get on the football and wrestling squads, but couldn't."

"I've always wanted to do something that others haven't tried before," she said. "I want to work with the men's team because as far as I know, nobody's done it before. I just like to see what it's like."

But managing isn't all Brenda does. At halftime Black Hawk fans find her performing with the Rhythm Steppers, a dancing group. She is also president of a choir.

Brenda says she will be back on the job next year.

"I'm more or less like a sister to the players," she says.

"It's like I've got 13 big brothers."

Ottawa dumps Dixon 69-59

By MIKE CUNIFF
Telegraph Sports Editor
OTTAWA—The Dixon Dukes shot only 36 per cent from the field, here, Friday night and the lowly figure was mainly responsible for a 69-59 NCIC loss to the Ottawa Pirates. The defeat snapped a three-game winning streak for the Dukes and reduced their conference ledger to 4-4 and their overall record to 4-13.

Sluggishness was another key factor as Dixon did not move the ball well and movement without the ball was rare. Passes were forced, shots taken resulting from poor selection and, overall, the game was not in doubt after Ottawa notched the final two baskets of the third quarter to take a 47-42 lead.

Marty Hanley bombed in eight free throws in the fourth stanza while Dan McNamara and Tom Cassidy netted three and two baskets, respectively, as the Pirates notched their sixth win against two losses in NCIC action.

Dave Zinnen popped in 20 points, mostly on driving jumpers, before fouling out with 41 left, to keep the Dukes in the game. The 20 points represented a varsity high for the sophomore guard. Zinnen was the only accurate shooter on the squad as Greg Weigle was one of six, Dave Moody six of 15, Ned Vail four of 12 and Steve Breitka four of 13.

Kurt Wallace and Jim Edwards got in late for pressure defense and picked up six points between them. Wallace dumped in one basket in two shots, while Edwards was perfect in a pair of chances. The free throw line proved critical as Ottawa converted 17 of 23 opportunities, while Dixon canned five in eight attempts.

Eight times the Pirates had a bonus opportunity, and only once did they fail to swish the first shot. Five times, including four by Hanley, both charity shots found the hoop. The Dukes did not get a successful free throw until Breitka netted both ends of a bonus try with 2:59 to go.

Breitka pulled down 10 rebounds in the first half, with seven at the defensive end finished with 16 for the night, but could hit only two of 11 field goal attempts in the 16 minutes as Dixon got a 28-26 advantage when Moody hit a 15-footer with :57 left. Ottawa worked the ball around, waiting for the final shot, which Mike Purcell dropped through with two ticks left on the clock.

Zinnen netted all three of his field goal opportunities in the first quarter and was two-for-five in the second stanza. He picked up a loose ball under the offensive basket and rammed it home, drove for a layup and hit a 15-footer in the initial quarter and followed it up with a driving layup (after a Breitka steal) and another 15-foot jump shot in the second stanza.

Moody hit three jumpers from 15 feet down low at the right of the hoop in the second quarter, after missing all three of his attempts in the opening eight minutes. Purcell had six points in the first quarter and five in the second. The area right around the free-throw line was exploited by the Pirates for six baskets in the opening half.

Ottawa zipped passes around until a man was open for a percentage shot but, even so, hit only 14 of 39 attempts. Dixon was 12 of 30. The Pirates had eight leads in the half but never more than a four-point advantage.

The Dukes kept coming back at the start of the second half, as Cassidy hit a drive and Purcell swished two free throws before Breitka put in an offensive rebound of a Vail miss. Purcell and Zinnen exchanged baskets before Hanley got away for a fast-break layup, to give the home team a 36-32 lead.

Breitka then tipped in a Weigle failure and Moody zeroed home a 15-footer to knot it up at 3:20. It was the beginning of the end since Dixon could never tie the game again. Two charity tosses by Cassidy and one by Purcell shattered the deadlock, but Zinnen came through with a drive.

Purcell and Paul Zimmerman then traded hoops with Weigle and Zinnen to make it 43-42 with 1:29 to go. A layup by McNamara and a basket by Purcell gave the Pirates a 47-42 lead at the end of the quarter.

The margin soon expanded to 11 as Ottawa got the first three baskets of the last stanza. Cassidy put in an offensive rebound, a layup, and then assisted on a layup by McNamara. The Dukes sliced the lead to as little as six points, with :50 to go, before Hanley drilled four of six free throw efforts to wrap it up.

Purcell led all scorers with 24 points on 10 baskets (24 attempts) and four charity tosses. Hanley and Cassidy got 14 apiece. Hanley was 10 for 12 at the charity stripe. Cassidy was six for 11 from the floor, while McNamara got four of seven in a reserve role for eight points.

Zinnen had 20 to pace the Dukes. Moody added a dozen, while Breitka finished with 11.

Kurt Dugan popped in an 18-footer, with one second to play, to give the Ottawa sophomores a 54-52 victory. Dixon outscored the home team 25-22 in baskets but the winners made 10 free throws. The Dukeslets attempted only four free throws.

Tom Evett clicked on 10 of 13 field goal attempts to finish with 20 points for Dixon. John Kemp and Jeff Renne tacked on 12 and 10 points, respectively. Dugan's 17 led Ottawa. The Dukeslets are now 6-2 in NCIC play and dropped out of a tie for first place with the loss.

Mounders retain first place with 77-51 rout over Polo

By CONNIE DETTMAN
Telegraph Sports Writer
MT. MORRIS — After suffering its first loss of the season last Saturday against Winnebago, Mt. Morris fans and players were asking themselves if they could stop the determined Polo team who was trying to take the lead in the Mid-Northern Conference.

At the same time, the Marcos and their followers were asking themselves if they could overcome the Mounders who were seeking their 17th victory against one defeat.

The final score of the game was made by Polo but the bucket did not really make any difference as the Mounders had already put the victory in their back pockets. As the ball swished through the hoop and the buzzer sounded the game became history and Mt. Morris retained sole possession of first place in the conference with a decisive 77-51 victory over Polo, here, Friday night.

The first minute of play seemed to last for an entire quarter as each team scrambled for the loose ball and tried to pull down the early rebounds from the opposing teams boards. Mt. Morris was the first to get on the board when Rich Masters connected on an outside shot for the 2-0 lead.

The Mounders then took strong control of the game and poured five consecutive shots through the basket to take a 10-0 lead. Don Vock finally put the Marcos on the board at 3:30 in the quarter.

The Marcos continued to have trouble handling the ball. Mt. Morris used its speed to intercept the ball and steal the ball for the quick two-point.

Polo started the game using a man-to-man defense and soon went to the full court press to try to stop the Mounders. Mt. Morris started with the full court press and used it to force the Marcos into mistakes.

Mt. Morris' rebounding off the Polo boards also hurt the Marcos. Polo managed to put the shots up but the ball continually rolled off the rim into the hands of a Mt. Morris player. With many mistakes by each team plaguing the first quarter, Mt. Morris took the first quarter lead at the buzzer, 18-9.

The Mounders came on strong and hard against the Marcos in the second quarter. Polo's shooting was cold as its offense only managed to score six points to Mt. Morris' 20 markers.

Every time a Marco player would turn around, a Mounder opponent was pulling a rebound off the boards or stealing the ball to go in for the easy lay-up. Mt. Morris continued to use its press and forced the Polo team into mistakes and the turnovers. Polo's passing also caused the point spread between the teams to increase. Marco passing was off the mark or into the hands of a Mounder. Mt. Morris would then take the bad passes and turn them into scores. With the second quarter doing more harm than good for Polo, the Marcos went to the locker rooms trailing Mt. Morris, 38-15.

Both teams came out ready to play and ready to run in the second half. A completely new game was witnessed by fans for each team, as Polo picked up some momentum to play pretty even ball with Mt. Morris.

The Marcos' shooting was on the mark as they began to hit both the long shot and the close layups and tip-ins. The Mounders continued to play consistent ball and to hit their shots to maintain the lead.

Polo really started to pick up some momentum as the pace began to quicken. The Marcos began to hit their passes and managed to get around the Mounder press.

Mt. Morris, managing to maintain its lead after relaxing its press, continued to put the ball through the hoop from all angles. The Mounders' big offensive scoring was made under the basket, as the players would pull the Marcos away from the basket and drive in for the score.

The third and fourth quarters were nearly carbon copies of each other as Polo scored 17 and 19 points, respectively, with the Mounders scoring 19 and 20 points, respectively. At the final buzzer, the Mounders took first place in the Mid-Northern Conference with a 10-

1 record. Polo now falls to third place in the conference, with an 8-3 mark, behind the 9-2 record of Forrester.

Mounder Steve Pease led all scorers for the night with 18 points, followed by Bruce Hongsermeier with 14 markers. Masters and Ron Alden each added 13 tallies to the final score for Mt. Morris.

Top scorer for Polo was Dave Galor, with seven points. Tom Clayton, Tim Jenkins and Vock each added six points for the losers.

The Dukes with 16 points were followed closely by the Sterling Warriors with 15. Sterling advanced 10 wrestlers into the semifinals. The remaining team standings: Rock Falls 13½, Rochelle 13½, La Salle-Peru 9, Princeton 6, Geneseo 5½, Streator 5½, Mendota 5, Kewanee 4½, and Ottawa 2.

John Green, at 98 for the Dukes, advanced by pinning his Rock Falls opponent, Eloy Mendez, at 5:41 in the second-round match. Green outscored Mendez 12-2 before sticking him.

The next Dixon grappler to advance was Warren Gridley, at 105. Gridley beat Kewanee's Mike Brown 13-3. Gridley managed a takedown, reversal, predicament, penalty point, and two near falls and Brown had only a reversal and a penalty point.

At 112, Ray Wilson made quick work of Pat Berlin of Kewanee. After the Duke took Berlin down he stuck him, 51 seconds into the match.

Dixon's next qualifier, Tom Cecchetti at 132, also won with a fall. Kent Cook of the Rock Falls Rockets was pinned at 5:33 by Cecchetti. Cecchetti had chalked up 11 points while holding Cook scoreless previous to the fall.

Mike James, 138, was Dixon's fifth qualifier. He downed Princeton's Ed Collins 12-0. James executed a takedown, predicament, reversal and two near falls.

167 was the Dukes' next victorious weight class, as Mike Allen defeated Tim Carrins of the Rockets 9-0. Allen scored with a takedown, reversal, predicament, and a near fall, while holding Carrins scoreless.

Bob Pinegar was the next advance for the Dukes. He beat Marty Lanning of Mendota 10-1 in the 185 match. Lanning escaped once, but Pinegar dominated him with three takedowns, an escape, and a near fall.

Dixon's heavyweight, Ed Jones, also advanced with a pin. The match was scoreless till the third period, when Jones reversed and stuck Mark Smulling of Princeton at 4:53.

Two of the Dukes, Jim Magnafici at 119 and Steve Lybarger at 145, had to wrestle two matches. Both won the first contest but dropped the second.

Magnafici started by edging Rochelle's Dave Martin 4-3. He matched a reversal and two escapes to Martin's takedown and escape. Aaron Goy, Mendota, defeated Magnafici in the second round 5-2. Goy had two takedowns and an escape, while Magnafici only had two penalty points.

Lybarger won his first by sticking Tim Wachel of Geneseo at 4:51. He lost 9-4 to Jeff Rose of Mendota in the second round. Lybarger could only match two reversals to Rose's two takedowns, two reversals and an escape.

The two remaining Dukes, Mike Fritts at 126 and Rockford Derksen at 155, only had to wrestle in the second round, but were eliminated there.

Fritts was defeated 2-0 by L-P's Dave Ericson. Ericson reversed in the final few seconds of the match to break the 0-0 and win.

Derksen was downed 8-3 by Greg Musgrove of Sterling. Derksen had a reversal and a penalty point, and Musgrove scored with a takedown, reversal, a penalty point and a near fall.

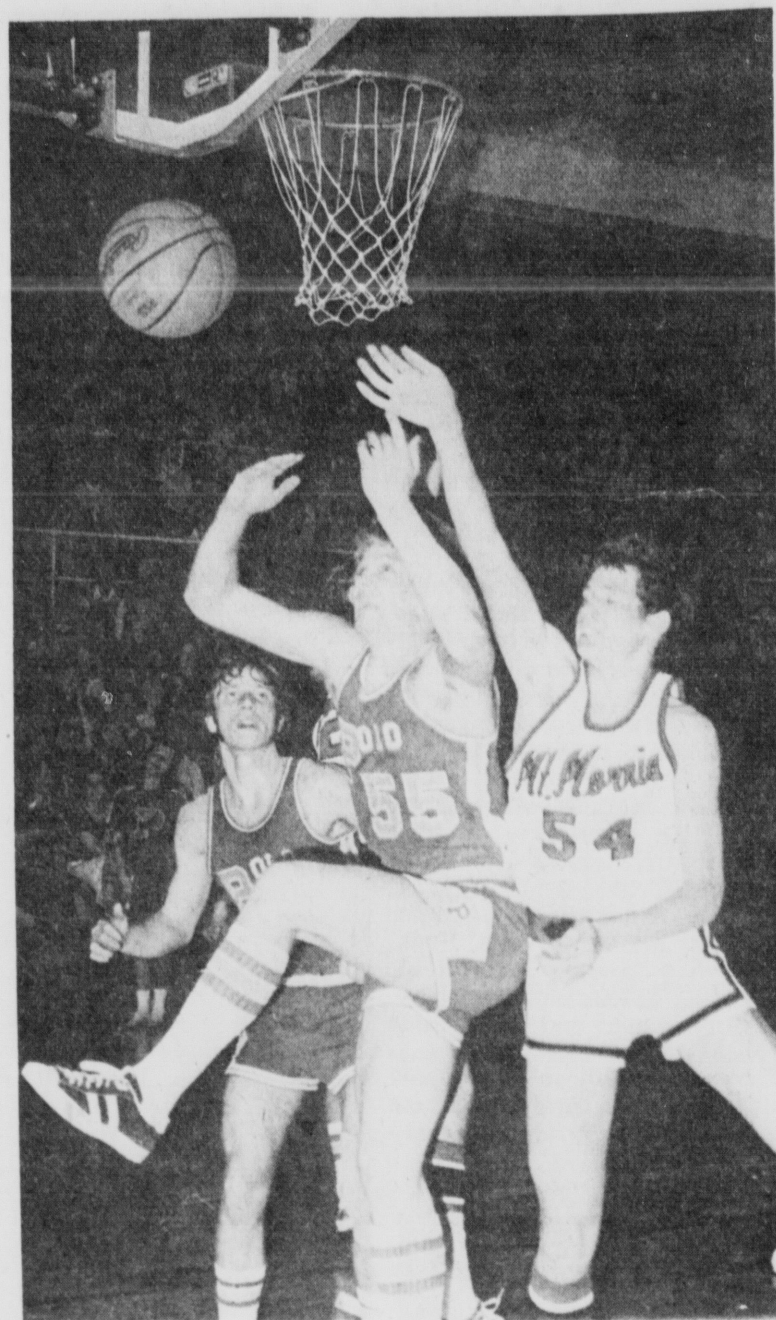

This afternoon, starting at 2 p.m., the Dukes will wrestle the semifinals of the NCIC. The finals and consolation contests will begin at six and the second-place matches start at 7:30.

The Cleveland Indians shed no tears when the Baltimore Orioles traded lefthander Dave McNally to the Montreal Expos of the National League during the winter. McNally's career record against Cleveland is 24-14.

RON ALDEN of Mt. Morris blocks a lay-up by Polo's Mark Bratrud in early action between the Marcos and the tough Mt. Morris team. The Mounders, seeking a win to retain their first-place position in the Mid-Northern Conference, won a 77-51 verdict at Mt. Morris Friday night. Polo now falls to third place in the conference behind the Forrester Cardinals. (Telegraph Photo)

Franklin Center nips Pearl City

PEARL CITY — Junior guard Jeff Jahn converted a steal for a length-of-the-court lay-up with :48 left to give Franklin Center a 57-56 lead and then iced the victory with a free throw with :04 remaining as the Eagles rallied to defeat Pearl City 58-56, here, Friday night.

The contest upped the Franklin Center Upstate Illini Conference record to 7-1 and its overall season slate to 14-5. "We had to scrap," Dennis Kessel, Franklin Center coach, stated. "We were just sluggish and played our least aggressive game of the season."

"We weren't aggressive on offense, and more importantly, not on defense and they just ate us up on the boards." Pearl City had a 42-31 advantage in rebounding "Which is the first time all year we've been out-rebounded and still won," commented Kessel.

"Brinkmeier (Robin) and Farwell (Jeff) had 25 rebounds between them at half. Then, in the second half, we tightened up our defense and got a really big lift out of Rusty Klavenga who did a fine job in coming off the bench to score seven points."

"But I was satisfied with the win on the road," added Kessel. "It gives us a two-game lead (in the conference). Scott Delhotal had a real fine first half with 15 of his 17 points. His shooting opened up the middle in the second half and Klavenga took advantage of it for his seven points."

Delhotal finished with 17 markers for the Eagles. Jahn got a dozen and John Kirchofer one less. Jim Musser, led Pearl City with eight baskets for 16 points. Farwell tacked on 13 while Brent Smith found the hoop for 10. Brinkmeier was limited to nine.

Franklin Center now returns home to face Durand in another Upstate Illini contest tonight.

Conditioning comes first

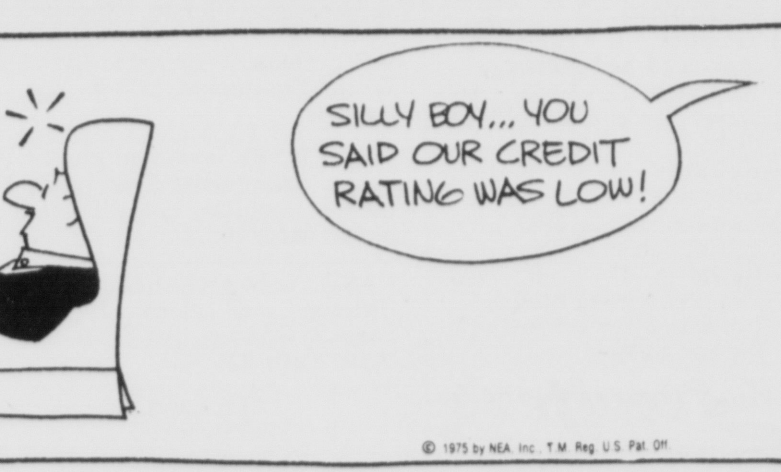

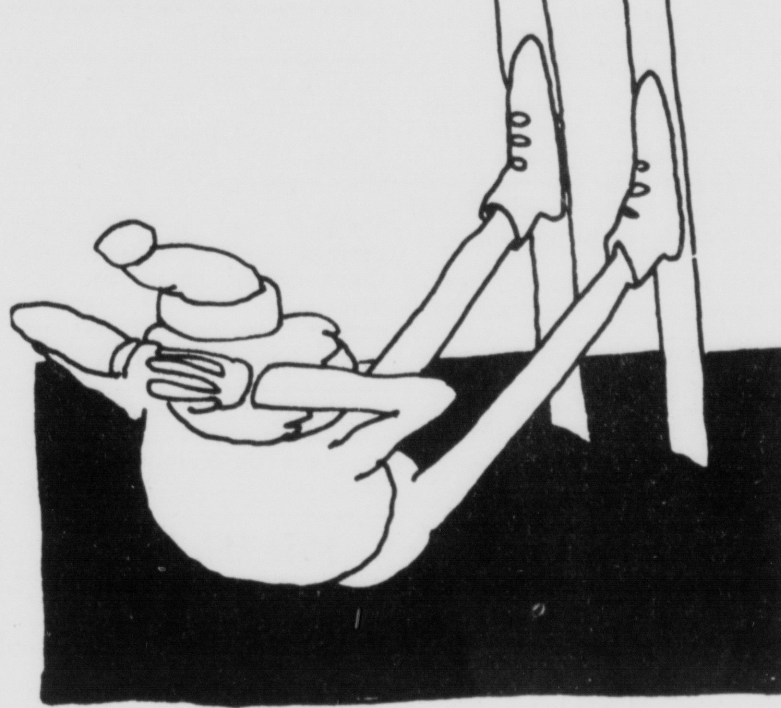

By Bob Beattie
Q. Would you please suggest three or four preseason exercises which will help me get into shape for the ski season? J.D., Mexico City, Mexico.

A. Running is the best all-round conditioner; it's good for coordination, leg strength and respiratory development. Sit-ups help develop stomach muscles which work harder than you might think when you are skiing. Another good exercise, if you're nimble, is to jump laterally over a barrier about eight inches to a foot off the ground. These side-to-side hops improve balance and leg strength. Be sure to warm up before strenuous exercises.

Q. What snow conditions are best for recreational skiing? K.F., Tulsa, Okla.

A. Nine out of 10 recreational skiers probably prefer packed-powder snow conditions. Packed powder is a smooth surface which enables the skier, regardless of ability, to set a biting edge into the snow. And edge control is the secret to skiing.

The Los Angeles Dodgers have named Ron Brand to manage Bakersfield (California) for the 1975 season. Brand, 34, who played for the Pirates, Astros and Expos during his major league career, managed Niagara Falls (New York-Pennsylvania) during 1974.

Scaling small fish can be a nuisance. This trick, however, will make the task easier. Dip the fish in a pot of scalding water for a few seconds. You'll find that the scales will practically fall off when scraped with a scaling knife. If you have a lot of small fish to scale you can scale them in one operation by stringing them on a straightened wire coat hanger. —Sports Afied

Breast Cancer Health Quiz

SIXTH IN A SERIES:

Q:
Is There a Relationship Between Diet And Breast Cancer?

ANSWER: We do not yet know definitely that a relationship exists between diet and breast cancer.

There are some experts who are convinced that an increased risk of getting breast cancer is associated with a large intake of the kind of fats found in dairy food and beef.

Some investigators think that this increase in saturated fats in the diet leads to an increased production of female hormones and perhaps increased stimulation of breast tissue with an increase in cancer development if one has already started, but is still in a microscopic stage.

The coincidence of increased numbers of breast cancer in those countries where substantial proportion of food intake is in this kind of fats—as in the United States—is often cited as evidence.

The whole problem is being looked at carefully. It would, of course, be helpful if a definite connection could be demonstrated. It might lead to another method for control of the disease.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE C-672: Our daughter Judy and her four children were home visiting us recently. "Daddy," Judy began, "I've heard you quote our famous Chicago physiologist, Dr. Andrew C. Ivy, as saying we should all live to be 120. Especially if we eat the right things and avoid auto accidents. "But did you remember God allotted 120 years to us human beings as a standard lifespan?"

This surprised me, for though I had read through the entire Bible eight times during my youth, I recalled that Adam lived to be 950, while Abraham's lifespan dropped to 175 and Moses reached 120. But thousands of years after Noah, King David died at the age of 70. And that famous three score and ten years has been regarded as the standard for the past 3,000 years. "Judy," I protested, "I demand that you show me in the Bible where God allotted 120 years for our human lifespan." Gleelessly she got her Bible and turned to Genesis 6:3, which states: "And the Lord said, My spirit shall not always strive with man, for that he also is flesh: yet his days shall be an hundred and twenty years."

This 120-year lifespan means that the Almighty apparently implants an automatic pace-maker in the heart, which will make it beat steadily for 50 years beyond the present average longevity.

"Daddy," Judy asked, "why don't people live to that 120 mark, instead of dying at 50, 60, 70 or even 90?"

Several factors wear out our hearts before most of us even attain 80.

These include such active foes of longevity as tobacco, alcohol, obesity, emotional intemperance, hardening of the arteries, cholesterol deposits, etc.

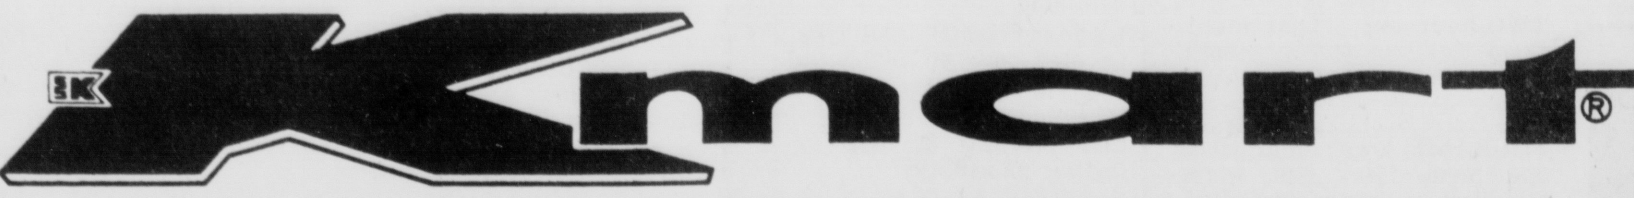

Passive enemies of long life may consist of trace chemical deficiencies!

Which is why I keep stressing the biochemists' view that the ocean's 44 water-soluble chemicals are vital to long life.

A recent editorial by famous Dr. Morris Fishbein now admits that 14 of those 44 are essential, though the Food and Drug Administration poooh-pooed my stress on trace chemicals back in 1955.
